

No Small Change

Summer 2004

An Update from the Atlanta Women's Foundation

GRANTEE SPOTLIGHT: REFUGEE WOMEN'S NETWORK

Created in 1995, Refugee Women's Network is a national non-profit organization helping meet the unique needs of refugee women through effective advocacy, leadership training and education.

Building on the idea that we learn best from each other, RWN invites women leaders from refugee communities to educate each other on the ways to best effect change. Through guided training sessions, women identify the most critical needs in their communities, develop culturally-sensitive solutions to these needs and garner the resources necessary to implement those solutions. Women who have completed the training form a peer support network, lessening the isolation often experienced by women in refugee communities. In less than ten years, more than 2,000 refugee and immigrant women from 31 states and 40 nationalities have completed the training.

Refugee Women's Network

AWF is proud to support this unique and exciting organization creating change in the lives of Atlanta's women and girls.

omen.org